

ABOUT THE GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION (GSA)

GSA was established by U.S. President Harry Truman on July 1, 1949, to streamline the administrative work of the federal government. GSA consolidated the National Archives Establishment, Federal Works Agency, Public Buildings Administration, the Bureau of Federal Supply, Office of Contract Settlement and the War Assets Administration into one federal agency; tasked with administering supplies and providing workplaces for federal employees.

GSA provides centralized procurement for the federal government, offering billions of dollars' worth of products, services, and facilities that federal agencies need to serve the public. GSA's acquisition solutions supply federal purchasers with cost-effective, high-quality products and services from commercial vendors. GSA helps federal agencies build and acquire office space, products and other workspace services; and oversees the preservation of historic federal properties. Its policies covering travel, property and management practices promote efficient government operations.

GSA leads the way in green building design, construction, retrofit and sustainable operations and maintenance. GSA is building a 21st century government that procures and manages technology solutions in smart, secure and affordable ways. It supports reduction in federal government real estate costs and increases in workplace efficiencies by strategically integrating space, people and technology solutions customized to different workplace needs. GSA AND PALMIERI FURNITURE SOLUTIONS

GSA makes purchasing furniture products and services simpler, easier and less expensive by providing both requisition and acquisition solutions. This allows commercial partners, like Palmieri, to have full range of items available under one contract for agencies to purchase, comply with policy changes and to add value and ease.

GSA AND AWI: PARTNERS FOR QUALITY

When the tenants of GSA-managed buildings require furnishings, they turn to the GSA and its network of approved suppliers. All such suppliers must meet the GSA's exacting standards for quality, value and customer service.

Where wood furnishings and finishes are concerned, the GSA has deferred to the AWI's Quality Certification Program since 2001. The GSA asserts that the construction, renovation and furnishings of the government buildings it manages must be performed under the auspices of the AWI's OCP and be supplied by licensed suppliers like Palmieri Furniture.

Palmieri's furniture collections graced some of the nation's most prestigious learning institutions and we're proud that the AWI and GSA consider the style, quality and value of our product to also be befitting of America's federally owned educational and public facilities.
